THERE'S REALLY no news reason for publishing this picture - except that this is the way downtown Porterville looks at the beginning of the year of 1966, and this is the way the foothills and the Sierra back of Porterville look. We just thought it's all sort of pretty - and we recommend that on the clear days of spring, you, and even you, take time

Heading up the program will be Sam Newman, of Visalia, president of the Sequoia Walnut Growers' association, and a director of the Diamond Walnut Growers' association. He will speak briefly on the value of the walnut industry to the economy of Tulare county, and will present a motion picture on the production and marketing of walnuts.

Arrangements for the banquet are being handled by Hack Hut- (Continued On Page 8)

Obviously, there are five sides to the story — Harry Scruggs, his wife, Audrey's, Jay Muller's, Charley McKenzie's, and the goat's.

Center of a sad and unfortunate incident was the goat — a large and mature Billy goat that was raised as a pet, then left on the Jay Muller ranch at Ducor by certain persons who hit the road for parts unknown.

The goat was taken to the Scruggs' ranch at Milo in the hope that it would fall in love with three Nannies that run wild on the hillside. The goat was subsequently returned, posthaste, to the Muller ranch after Scruggs reportedly said, "I'll kill the so-and-so if someone doesn't get it off my place, including the smell."

Jay Muller's story is simple, and it is clear that he was a victim of circumstance. He had the goat. Harry wanted it, in fact begged him for it, so out of deep friendship he sold it to Harry for two boxes of apples (which Jay later maintained were wormy), two coffee royals (which he says were heavy on coffee and light on the other ingredient), and a kid for barbecuing (which he doesn't expect to get). Jay delivered the goat in Charlie McKenzie's pickup, even supplying a bill of sale.

Audrey Scruggs' story goes straight to the point. This deal, she said, could have been born only in a saloon. She suggested that instead of bringing the goat to Milo they should have shipped it to Vietnam where the Army needs 2,000 police dogs to flush commies out of the jungle. She maintained that this one Billy goat could do the job without the dogs because no one could stand

DOLLAR DAYS IN PORTERVILLE FEBRUARY 17-19

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 20 — Bargains up and down the Emigrant trail — now better known as Main street — are being planned by downtown Porterville merchants for a Dollar Days sales event that is slated for February 17-18-19.

Detailed planning for the event was started at a meeting of the Merchants' committee of the Porterville chamber of commerce, held Tuesday morning. Heading up Dollar Days is Marvin Corrington; chairman of the Merchants' committee is Barney Richardson.

PARTING IS such sweet sorrow, but Harry Scruggs is taking no chances with Jay Muller's loveable Billy goat,

The Old Days

PORTERVILLE ENTERPRISE
October, 1907

Another busy session of the city trustees was held last Monday evening and a goodly bunch of business transacted. N. M. Ball appeared and asked for a further extension of time on his contract for the installation of a new bridge over the slough on Main street. Night Watchman Witt entered a complaint about the arc on the Davis block corner being out frequently. Trustee Murphy voiced the complaint he had heard in reference to poor lighting service in that the lights were not kept going until daylight. The trustees approached the discussion of the tent shooting gallery with reluctance in view of the infirmity of Mr. Williams, but in the face of certainty of a heavy increase of insurance rates if it was allowed to remain, it was decided that he must move it. The city donated ten dollars toward the cost of moving. Mr. Flanders, representing the library board, asked for a building permit for our new Carnegie library. This brought out considerable discussion and the result was that the permit was refused by a unanimous vote of city trustees for the building as proposed by the library board. Or-

NEW BOOKS ARE LISTED AT CITY LIBRARY

One quiet summer night on the Channel Isle of Guernsey, Matthew Cotter, a tomato-grower, awoke at the sound of a dog barking, got up to see his greenhouses and, outdoors, was slammed to the ground by an earthquake. How the quake changed his world, set him to wandering, and affected the other victims of the disaster are the themes of an interesting fictional survival story full of suspense, titled THE RAGGED EDGE, by John Christopher. Cotter is a very sympathetic hero, a good combination of a practical man and a thoughtful, sensitive human being — you will enjoy knowing him.

RAFE, by Weldon Hill, after a slow start, builds up to a thundering climax. "Rafe" is an eastern Oklahoma farm boy who does everything wrong — until he does. Finance No. 74, extending the fire limits, was read and passed. Also passed was an ordinance, prepared by Attorney Murry, calling a special election to vote on the question of paying fifty thousand dollars for the water works system. The usual batch of monthly bills were audited and warrants were ordered issued for the same.

one important thing exactly right. Rafe shares the focus of the story with his father's friend, Pete Cornshucks, a Cherokee Indian who likes fishing, good food and pretty women. Pete, a fine vivid personality, almost runs away with the story when he good-humoredly befriends Rafe's family and also helps out a pretty widow, a migrant worker who is stranded, broke, with four children. The story swings back to Rafe — and poor awkward Rafe becomes a hero, in the grand climax.

I'm beginning to think that there are more secret agents in the world than there are people. In THE CHINESE VISITOR, by James Eastwood, we are introduced to a new one — Anna Zordan, a resourceful, very beautiful, over-sexed girl of American-Hungarian parentage. Anna is so deeply involved in a political assassination at the time when the British agents catch up with her that they have virtually no choice except to take her in as a spy. The plot is high in excitement, ingenuity, surprises, and erotic suggestiveness.

TONY (the life and times of a charming scoundrel who lived on love), by Patrick Dennis, concerns the rise and fall of an obnoxious but personality-plus boy from his school days to his unsavory middle age as a roue with a nasty reputation. Like most of Dennis's plots, this one is incredible — or outlandish — as he intended it to be. The hero is in succession a World War II black marketeer; a kept man; an heirless' fiancé; a suburban husband living off his father-in-law; a TV figure; and a blackmailer. The author's fine acid prose is a pleasure to follow. Good entertainment.

"Even the woodpecker has found that the way to make progress is to use your head."

PERFORMANCE TESTED ALFALFA

Grower acceptance of Germain's Eldorado Alfalfa has been steadily increasing during the five years since its introduction. It is now one of the most extensively planted alfalfa varieties in California. And for good reason: Germain's Eldorado consistently outproduces Lahontan and Moapa and turns those extra tons per acre into profits. Its higher yields are not simply a matter of claim, they are fact, attested to by countless growers and University trials throughout California.

Its spotted alfalfa aphid resistance means just that. It was bred from twelve selected superior plant lines that proved highly tolerant to this profit-eating pest. Germain's Eldorado is considered to be a semi-non-dormant variety with a wide range of adaptability.

Not one haygrower or dairyman testimonial in our files has failed to mention Germain's Eldorado's quality. Its got it! Dark, green leafy foliage...fine stems...outstanding seedling vigor...rapid regrowth after cutting...longer growing season...stronger stands...stem nematode and alfalfa bacterial wilt resistance...higher in TDN and protein...lower in fiber...every plus that can put you in the profit picture when you plant Germain's Eldorado.

Now, smile for the banker...click!

Germain's Eldorado is available now. See your local Germain's Dealer to assure your planting requirements.

WHAT'S DOING?

Here's how to save money on your Long Distance calls. Call station-to-station, in the evening or on week-ends, and you can say a lot more for your money. Before you pick up the phone, it's a good idea to make a few notes about what you want to say. That way you won't forget anything. Remember, long distance rates are lowest every night and all day Sunday. You'll find the exact times for most economical calling in the front pages of your telephone directory.

I know elephant jokes are no longer in style, but here's a tale that's supposedly true. Calls from this country to Capetown, South Africa, had a hard time getting through, thanks to some African elephants. It seems the elephants were using telephone poles as back-scratchers, causing so much interference with their scratching that callers from the U.S. couldn't be heard.

Our latest figures show that here in the Porterville exchange, there are 13,622 telephones in use. This may not seem like a lot — until you realize that that's more phones than there are in the entire country of Mongolia. We are indeed fortunate to have a telephone system that is both widespread and inexpensive. In most places, it's a luxury.

Coin telephones have changed quite a bit since they were first introduced some 75 years ago. Tomorrow's phones will be streamlined (notice the single coin slot) . . . and quiet, too, when you deposit your coin. Why these changes? Simply to make the phones look and work even better than before.

committee, harranged a group of farm and packing house workers, meeting this week at Farmersville, to sign up for welfare, get their hands out for benefits, under AB 59, and, of course, join the union. SAID GREEN, "AB 59 is not charity. It belongs to you. I want every one of you to sign up for AB 59. Go in and sign up by the hundreds . . . This is federal money that you and I as taxpayers put into California. You are entitled to it. You are losing money every day you don't get it. That money belongs to you."

SO AGAIN we see the old switcheroo — the old reverse English in which a public support program designed to take care of people in genuine need evolves around into support money to which people are entitled; support money that belongs to them; support money to which they have a right. And the more illegitimate children in a family, the more money the illegitimate parents can qualify for; the more they are entitled to; the more that belongs to them.

THIS IS the philosophy that churches support when they support the Migrant Ministry, for the Migrant Ministry is supporting the union organizing activities of AWOC.

IT IS one thing when union organizers voice such a philosophy. But when the church joins with those preaching this philosophy, then the church is turning on a faucet that will eventually flood it down the drain.

UNLESS, OF course, straight thinking people in the church — in the church all over the nation — turn off the faucet.

A gardening friend tells us that he has spent so many foggy days outside that he is becoming covered with moss. We don't quite believe this but I'll bet if he has been outside some of these mornings he would be mistaken for a snow man. That white frost looked like the Yukon Territory after a real Canadian blizzard.

In spite of all this many people are stirring around their gardens getting ready for the pretty weather to come. Some are removing non-productive rose bushes or fruit trees and replacing with new ones. Others are pruning, spraying, and otherwise cleaning up the debris of winter. This keeps you warm as well as limbered up for trout fishing.

There are so many things ready to be planted now that the list seems endless. Almost everyday a truck pulls in and unloads something else that it's time to plant. Yesterday we received seed potatoes, perennial phlox, and bush peonies. The seed spuds come in two colors, red and white. The peonies in five colors and the phlox in eight.

We also unloaded some wild bird feeders, some new Ortho dichondra food, and a four hundred pound carpet that belongs to our bookkeeper. This last would make a beautiful front lawn but might take a lot of sweeping. We hope you'll come by anytime if only to browse through this delicious merchandise.

A GOAT OR TWO

to be within a half mile of him.

At first Audrey took a sort of liking to the goat — from a distance — but after he had eaten her pyracantha and other assorted shrubs, butted her car, jumped a deer-tight fence to get into the garden, and made passes at the front door when no one would let him come inside the house, she decided the goat must go. Only redeeming feature was that when the goat was around, Harry was reluctant to go outside, so instead of slipping off to town, so often, he stayed home.

Harry Scruggs' story is a heart-rending saga of life in the wilderness. He claims the goat knocked him down four times; that it would run off the top of the mountain, deserting the Nannies, just to make a pass at him, and that when he hit it with a shovel, peppered it with a shotgun, and sprayed ammonia in its face, the goat thought he was playing, and would stand on his hind legs, aim certain excrement at him, then ranch at Milo. McKenzie? Oh, yes. He was not in picture range at the time, in fact he was about a quarter mile away, up wind, of course. (Allegedly a Farm Tribune photo) dance away, come down on all fours, and prepare to charge again, with magnificent Billy goat aroma permeating the mountain air at all times in all directions.

Charlie McKenzie's story is that he was conned into taking the goat to the Scruggs' ranch in the first place; he was conned into going after it in the second place, and that even with the pickup windows rolled up tight he was still unable to keep out the aforementioned aroma. He said he threw away his clothes and now he believes he will have to do the same with his pickup.

Although the goat is not talking, it is obvious that because of his upbringing as a pet he thinks he is a people, and being a people, he wants nothing to do with goats. Really, it was affection, not animosity, that he was demonstrating toward Harry, and it is doubtful that he will ever fully recover from his traumatic experience, particularly when he realized why Harry was carrying a pair of tin snips when old friend Jay, and Charlie, came to take him away.

So there is no longer a Billy goat on the Scruggs ranch at Milo; there will be no wild goat herd for sportsmen to hunt; and Jay is now considering shipping the goat to Texas as a gift for the LBJ ranch — that is if he can bring himself to again part with him.

In a terse and final resume of the entire incident, Audrey states that she has been living with one old goat for all these years — and one is enough.

Fog and damp weather generally in the San Joaquin valley is hindering final cleanup of the cotton harvest.

WORTH TALKING ABOUT

"There has... for example, been a noticeable decline in the kind of enterprising incentive that leads to caring for the customer. Strikes, sitdowns, sit-ins, and other forms of pressure have helped achieve rights and privileges, but job respect has often suffered. Featherbedding maintains jobs but it tends to undermine respect for jobs. The ever-shorter work week reaches a point where it is a denial of social responsibility. Unemployment insurance is a social need but it has bad as well as good effects. It does not stimulate the desire to serve, which is essential to an economy as well as an enterprise."

Jack I. Straus, Chairman
R. H. Macy & Co., Inc.

"We seem to have lost that feeling of genuine pride in workmanship today. When does a man step back from his work, smile, look at his product and say, 'I did a fine job, the product will sell because I made it better, the company will prosper, my job will be secure, I can send my children to college.' Corny, maybe. But what has been done to perpetuate that feeling of pride man once had toward his work? Little. He's been indoctrinated to believe that Management is money mad, the Union will take care of his wages, his seniority, his promotion, his security. And what isn't done for him by his leaders will be done for him by the Government."

lected. The queen will receive $100 and a trophy; the princesses will receive a trophy.

All contestants will retain 25 per cent of the money earned through the sale of special tickets.

In charge of the queen contest is Mrs. Carol Sorensen, Rt. 2, Box 152, telephone 539-2838, Springville. Girls can contact Mrs. Sorensen for contest entry blanks.

Officially, entries will close and the contest for queen will open the evening of February 18, when queen candidates will meet at the Springville Memorial hall for publicity pictures, and to receive their special tickets. The contest, and sale of tickets, will continue until 7:30 p.m., the evening of March 25, when an accounting of contestants' tickets will be made at the Memorial building.

After that date, girls can continue to sell tickets until noon of April 3 to earn money for themselves; however, tickets sold after March 25 will not count in the queen contest.

Horsemanship judging will be held in the Springville Rodeo arena on March 20.

Announcement of the 1966 Springville-Sierra Rodeo queen, and her two princesses, will be made during a Cornation ball that will be sponsored by the Springville post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the Springville Memorial building the evening of March 26, starting at 9 p.m.

During the week prior to the rodeo the queen and princesses will make a number of public appearances at meetings, and on radio and television, throughout the southern San Joaquin valley.

For years Earnest Bromley, a Christian businessman, looked forward to retiring to a little farm, where he could spend his sunset years enjoying the peace of the countryside, far from the clangor and confusion of commerce. But no sooner had he moved to his farm than he made a sad discovery. The previous owner of the farm had been involved in a dispute with his neighbor Jake over a boundary fence that separated the two properties. Mr. Bromley visited Jake at once and asked him what the trouble was.

"The trouble," replied Jake, hotly, "is just this. Your west fence is on my land two feet at one end of the field, and at least a foot at the other end."

"Is that all?" smiled Bromley. Well, I don't know whether you're right or not; but I'm a Christian, and I dislike quarreling. Go ahead and move the fence. Where you say I encroach on your land two feet, you take four; and where it is one foot, take two. Is that fair?"

"Fair?" gasped the amazed Jake. "Man, it's twice what I claim! I don't want your land. All I want is my rights."

"Look here!" said Mr. Bromley. "There's been too much fighting over this land. Take what you think is fair, and let's be good neighbors."

The old farmer hung his head. Then he said, "Mr. Bromley, that fence ain't going to be moved one inch. It's going to stay right where it is, and you and I will be friends."

Blessed are the Bromleys, who follow the teachings of Christ concerning selfless giving. There is a vast gulf betwix them and our modern "gimme, gimme!" society.

Third.

Collier said this week that lines have dwindled at his office during the last few days, and that stickers can now be issued with minimum delay.

"Put the validated 1966 registration on the steering post, and the chrome-yellow sticker in the upper right-hand corner of the rear plate and you'll be through for another year," Collier said.

"This slack period will probably last another week or more before the waiting lines at our windows grow longer," he said. "We are expecting a heavy rush before the February 4 deadline."

The DMV manager said that vehicle owners who have not yet received a registration statement card in the mail should take their 1965 registration cards to a DMV office. "We can compute fees and issue 1966 registration from the previous year's registration card," he said.

All DMV offices are open on Saturday until noon until January 29, in addition to normal 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekday office hours.

The speaker was born in Australia, starting her world-wide travels with a bicycle trip across her native land. She has lectured throughout the United States, and in England.

Club members must make reservations with Marie Brey by not later than tomorrow — Friday, January 21.

REPORTS AND ELECTION ON AGENDA OF PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATION MEETING IN VISALIA NEXT TUESDAY

VISALIA, Jan. 20 — The 32nd annual meeting of the Visalia Production Credit association will be held Tuesday, January 25 at the Visalia Elks club, the meeting this year being an afternoon affair, beginning at 1:30 p.m., with adjournment scheduled for 3:30 p.m., followed by refreshments.

Thomas Bettencourt of Lemoore, association president, will preside as chairman. The agenda calls for a review of last year's activities by the board and P.C.A.'s management, and a projected view of 1966.

A representative from the Federal Intermediate Credit bank is expected to provide members with the national financial outlook for 1966. Election of two directors to fill expiring terms will comprise the business part of the meeting.

Visalia P.C.A. has a membership of over 1,300 farmers in Tulare and Kings counties and is one of 28 cooperatively owned financial institutions which comprise Berkely Farm Credit district of California, Arizona, Nevada, and Utah. The P.C.A.s were established by the Farm Credit Act of 1933 and are cooperatively owned by farmers, with some 1,600 offices throughout the country.

Massive, "Big Brother" Federal Bill To Take Over Sales Tax Opposed By Members of Board of Equalization

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20 — A "massive" federal plan to move into the states' sales tax field, was attacked this week as a "big brother" bureaucracy being legislated in haste.

Two members of the State Board of Equalization, which administers California's sales and use taxes, opposed a bill proposed by Representative Edwin E. Willis (D-La.) at a San Francisco hearing before the Assembly Revenue and Taxation committee.

Member John W. Lynch, who is also president of the National Association of Tax administrators, said the bill took four years of study, but the states have had only about three months to measure its impact.

"Yet Congressman Willis had predicted passage by this Congress. Why the great rush to enact this massive program of federal intervention?" Lynch asked.

Richard Nevins, who represents Southern California on the state board, said, "We do not believe that in order to correct some difficulties for multistate businesses it is necessary to superimpose a "big brother" federal bureaucracy over us to administer our state taxes. Any real unfairness to interstate commerce can be cured through enlightenment and co-operative efforts of the states."

Lynch said the states have both the machinery and experience to correct any inequities in sales tax laws for interstate firms.

Western Theme For Porterville Chamber Banquet

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 20 — A western theme will be followed when members of the Porterville Garden club decorate for the 59th annual banquet of the Porterville chamber of commerce, set for the high school cafeteria the evening of February 5.

Heading the decorations committee is Mrs. John Wheeler; to be honored at the banquet is the cattle industry.

Serving the dinner that will feature barbecued beef will be members of the Job's Daughters; pouring coffee will be members of the Porterville Junior Women's club.

Chamber members who have received banquet tickets by mail are urged by Ticket Chairman John Foster to return money or tickets without delay; tickets went on general sale today through directors of the chamber and at the four Porterville banks.

THE MEN in her life surround "The Millionaire," Virginia Haydu, who plays the starring role in the George Bernard Shaw comedy that opens Friday for a three-weekend run at the Porterville Barn theater.

The men, from left: Bill Pukmel, Paul Ryan, Terry Sinyard, and Ralph Bemier. Curtain time is 8:15 P.M.; reservations can be made for any of the six performances of the show by phoning 784-2424.

Because of seating capacity, ticket sales will be limited to 500.

CRANSTON TO RUN FOR REELECTION

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 20 — State Controller Alan Cranston this week formally announced his candidacy for re-election this year.

Cranston thus became the first Constitutional officer in California to confirm his plans for 1966.

In a campaign statement delivered at news conferences in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento, the Democratic leader listed four reasons for his decision to seek re-election as state controller:

1. The next four years will be an exciting and challenging period for California and its leadership.

2. I like the work.

3. It's an important job.

4. I think I've done a good job.

As the first incumbent, statewide office-holder to reveal firmly his 1966 plans, Cranston said that two factors prompted an early announcement:

"First, I don't like to be coy about my intentions. I'm finished with saying that I 'plan' or 'expect' or 'hope' to run. I will run. Period.

Master of ceremonies will be Bill Rodgers, of The Farm Tribune, and a member of the Porterville city council.

"Second, there are still too many silly rumors about a 'reshuffling of the Democratic ticket' drifting around the state. There isn't going to be any reshuffling. I am not considering a race for governor, Lt. governor or sheriff of Alpine county. I'm running for re-election as state controller."

Cranston was elected in 1958. He was defeated in the Democratic Senatorial primary of 1964.

STATE CONTROLLER Alan Cranston, who runs a mile daily before breakfast to keep in shape, became the first California Constitutional officer off and running for re-election. Cranston, 51, is a former Stanford University quarter-miler.
